Description

Investors driving our market economy are as varied as their walks in life. Whether they are just entering the market or have invested for many years. These people have all reported their interest in investing. Additional sophisticated modeling has tagged these people to be in the top 10% for the country to be the most likely investors, as well as predicting the amount of income producing assets.

Data is compiled through self reported, advanced modeling and other proprietary sources.
File is selectable by zip, state, county, radius or Congressional District.
